KAYSVILLE OPERA HOUSE BURNS DOWN

Glen Harper Company Loses Its Entire Effects—Entire Loss and No Insurance.

The Kaysville opera house was burned to the ground this morning at 3 o'clock. The cause of the fire is unknown. As the building carried no insurance, the loss of $5,000 is complete.

The night before the fire the Glen Harper dramatic company presented "The Van Winkle" to a large audience. After the performance the audience and the actors left the building, and the janitor extinguished the lights and went home, supposedly leaving the place in safe condition. About 3 o'clock next morning, only a few hours after the doors were closed, the town was awakened by the cry of fire, and the burning of two or three Hamberger line poles, the flames were confined to the one building.

The Kaysville opera house was erected in 1873 by the Kaysville ecclesiastical ward. In 1909 it was completely remodeled, at considerable cost, making it a model little playhouse. The reason no insurance was carried on the building was an accident of the rate quoted by the insurance companies, which was so high as to exceed the yearly profits from the building. A new opera house will probably be constructed on the same site, but this matter has not yet been decided on.

A private safe may be rented in the fire and burglar-proof vaults of the Lake Security & Trust Co., 32-34 Main street, $2.00 per year.

SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

The refreshment room in the Odeon, dancing hall proves a very convenient place for the weekly meetings of the Salt Lake Symphony orchestra. Yesterday evening at 8 o'clock Prof. McClellan's direction, held a session, at which quite a number of interested listeners were present and all such as were present were quite as enthusiastically as though the performance had been a regular one, and admission rates had been charged. Prof. McClellan brought out the beauties of the string section better than ever before, especially in the Vorspiel to Lohengrin, while Miss Clayton's rendition of the Grieg "Concerto," not only showed a superb technique, but also showed how the men are progressing under Prof. McClellan's careful tutelage.

Tonight a notable affair takes place at the university in the fifth annual promenade of the junior class, the preparations being on a most elaborate scale and a large number of invitations being issued. The decorations will eclipse all previous efforts, and the promenade will be an immense summer bower, with a lattice work of greenery for the ceiling studded with flowers while the electric lights will be in clusters suggestive of bouquets, and the college and fraternity colors will help to give brilliance to the scene.

Next week there will be a "book fair" instituted by the Federation of Women's clubs, the proceeds to be devoted to the various public philanthropic and benefits in which the federation is interested, humane, educational, art, and other lines. The enterprise will comprise the sale of the rare collection of books brought here recently by a noted book collector and which will be on sale at 44 south Main street, where a number of women from the various clubs of the city will alternate as clubwomen salesladies. The affair is in charge of a committee appointed by the federation president, Mrs. S. E. McMahon, and comprises Mrs. S. E. Nelden, chairman, Mrs. A. J. Gorham and Mrs. A. S. Cowan. The sale commences on Monday and will continue during each day from 9 o'clock a. m. to 3 p. m., from Jan. 17 to the end of the month.
